NAAIA Announces 2025 Regional Forums

Industry professionals will gather in Chicago, Washington, D.C., and Kansas City

Washington, DC – The National African American Insurance Association (NAAIA) is set to host its 2025 Regional Forums, uniting insurance professionals across the country under the theme: "Cultivating Leaders of Tomorrow: Transforming Organizations and Communities."

The three-city series will take place on:

- 📍 March 18, 2025 – Chicago, IL
- 📍 April 03, 2025 – Washington, D.C.
- 📍 April 23, 2025 – Kansas City, MO

Designed to empower professionals at every career level, the NAAIA Regional Forums will provide key insights on leadership, career advancement, and the evolving insurance industry while fostering meaningful connections with industry leaders.

"As the insurance landscape continues to evolve, we recognize the critical need to equip professionals with the tools to lead and drive impact in their workplaces and communities," said Omari Aarons-Martin, Executive Director and Chief Operating Officer of NAAIA. "Our Regional Forums serve as a platform for education, best practice sharing, and networking, ensuring our members have the resources needed to succeed."

Regional Forums feature dynamic panel discussions, fireside chats, and networking, connecting professionals with their peers, executives, and industry association leaders. Hosted in partnership with the host region's chapters, NAAIA collaborates with business leaders, professional associations, and educational institutions to bring diverse voices into the conversation. The forums will also feature a networking reception featuring NAAIA Founder Jerald Tillman and NAAIA National board members.

"Our goal is to make leadership development accessible and actionable for professionals across the country," said Ashley White, Chief of Staff and Director of National Programs for NAAIA. "By hosting these events regionally, we ensure that more professionals have the opportunity to connect, learn, and grow within their communities."

Registration for the 2025 Regional Forums is now open!
